Quintessentially Estates Lists a $8.9 Million Pacific Palisades Home

Quintessentially Estates, the world's only global lifestyle real estate company, has just listed a stunning $8.9 million property in Los Angeles, California. Designed by architect Anthony Zubick, this meticulously crafted home offers unobstructed & breathtaking ocean views from the Queens Necklace to Downtown. Its thoughtfully designed open floor plan offers panoramic views from nearly every room.

RELEVANCE
INTERNATIONAL

The privately gated 7,000 sq ft property boasts 7 bedrooms, 9 baths, a floating staircase and a luxurious master wing that includes dual closets, a wraparound deck, and a world-class bathroom. Perfect for entertaining, the home offers a thoughtfully designed floor plan with unobstructed ocean views from nearly every room and a chef's kitchen with Wolf and Miele amenities that seamlessly flow within the space.

Fleetwood doors open to an expansive flat yard with a full kitchen, pool and spa, a fire pit, and mature trees. Located in a coveted neighborhood, 770 Paseo Miramar is highly sought after by celebrities.

Quintessentially Estates specializes in buying, selling, renting and property management. Supported by the global framework of the Quintessentially Group, with over 60 international offices, the company boasts unprecedented access no other real estate company has. Its International Brand Partnership, PR Team, International Project Sales department and exclusive membership database allow to provide a standard of international property marketing that is unmatched in the industry.
